Surely you can't mean that the property owner MUST allow pets, by law?

While I am sure most pet owners are responsible caretakers for their pets....more damage to rental properties has been caused by pets than any other single cause (in my opinion).

To give an idea of immaturity of one renter I used t have in a condo...when I told her the dog had to go (after seeing its dung and scratching/gnawing damage after only a week or so....), the renter replied "That's not fair!"

And that's only dogs. I've bought properties in which renters had previously kept cats. No amount of cleaning could remove cat odors and damage.

This is not an issue solely of liability, but of property damage that can't easily be fixed.

In one day, a frustrated or active dog can ruin landscaping in a yard (almost as bad as feral pigs).

Subject: One month left to give feedback on draft Plan for a Healthy Los Angeles

The Plan for a Healthy Los Angeles has been part of a series of community planning forums to get feedback from Angelenos on three initiatives that will shape the future of the city. The final community planning forum will take place in the Harbor on April 12, and we invite all Angelenos to participate and share their ideas around health, transportation, and zoning issues.

For those who weren't able to attend the seven forums, the Plan for a Healthy Los Angeles would like to hear your ideas before the close of the 90-day public comment period on May 13. We are offering a survey (in English and Spanish) to get feedback on the city's vision for health.

The short survey asks two basic questions around the plan's six goals:

What should the Plan for a Healthy Los Angeles prioritize? The proposed draft is organized around six goals: A City Built for Health, Bountiful Parks and Open Space, Food that Nourishes the Body and Soul, An Environment Where Life Thrives, Lifelong Opportunities for Learning and Prosperity, and Safe and Just Neighborhoods. For each of these topics, please help us pick the TOP TWO programs that should be prioritized as we develop the Plan for a Healthy Los Angeles implementation strategy.

Is anything missing? If you think we are missing an innovative idea, have a program you want to suggest, or generally want to give us feedback, please help us fill in the blanks.

Survey participants will be entered into a raffle. The Plan for a Healthy Los Angeles will be giving away seven gift cards: four $25 cards, two for $50, and a grand prize of a $100.

Please share this survey widely with your networks and help us increase participation in making Los Angeles a healthier city. A copy of the draft Plan for a Healthy Los Angeles is available to download on the project website.

If you would like to give us additional feedback before the close of the 90-day public comment period on May 13, you can:

Email your comments to elizabeth.carvajal@lacity.org (include your name, telephone, and contact information).

Send your comments via mail to: Elizabeth Carvajal, Citywide Section, Department of City Planning, 200 N. Spring St., Room 667, Los Angeles, CA 90012 (include your name, telephone, and contact information).

Or fax: (213)978-1477 (include your name, telephone, and contact information).

Additionally, the draft Mobility Plan 2035 draft is also available for public review until May 13. Our survey does not include the Mobility Plan 2035, but please check their website for details on how to submit public comment.

Thank you,

Lithographs, Silk Screens and Other Cultural Artifacts

The single images of Lewis Mauk, through his keen exquisite observation and expression, the common day object becomes heightened fact, undeniably present, an eternal moment. Some images are overlayed with rose thorns, wishbones, fortunes, horoscopes creating a multiplicity of meaning, a poetry; an exposure of the inner, subconscious darkness of the artist's self by the artist's own insistent light to realize an uneasy and intelligent beauty.

"I mine the personal for ideas. My practice is the cartography of the psyche. My subject matter is both index and evidence of obsessive compulsive behavior, prescriptive and self medicating and the matriarchal influences in my life. I use my work to search for answers and catharsis."

Lewis Mauk is a Los Angeles based artist whose work includes: printmaking, photography and sculpture. Lewis received his BFA in 1997 from the University of Tennessee and his MFA from Cal-Arts in 2000. Lewis has taught both photography and printmaking in schools throughout the Los Angeles area including California Institute of the Arts, Otis College of Art and Design and Chapman University. Lewis exhibits in Los Angeles and is a member of the Elysian Valley Arts Collective.

Hi Susan,

I just lost my daughter's ten year old, tan colored Chihuahua. Boo Boo was last seen April 10th on Beech Street and Glenalbyn Street just above Isabel. She is wearing a worn out purple collar and she requires her seizures medication twice a day. If you see her and catch her, please call me at (323)227-1133. I am offering a $25 reward.

Help renters keep their pets. Tell renters to ask their landlord if they would be able to keep their pets if they are willing to take out renters insurance. Renters insurance provides liability coverage for dog bites with many companies. Ask your insurance agent or company to be sure. Also make sure to take the renters insurance with the same company you have your auto insurance with (if you have auto insurance) to get the most discounts. And, you might get 2 policies for the price of one. If property owners know that the renter has insurance for dog bites they might let them keep their pets. And, renters insurance is pretty cheap too.

Renters can keep their pets if they are service animals. And, there is no state or federal registry for service animals.
